

Sure Feels Like You

(Richard Lamplough)

*Don't want nobody cause no-one's got your kind of body,
I'll just go wandering by... oh my.
Got different colours for different ways that we've been lovers,
And now I can't see the sky.
(Damn rainbows in my eyes.)
Just when I thought I'd never speak again,
My lips told on me, you had such a hold on me.
I met somebody who turned into your mind and body,
And left me breathless and how.
Hear me now.*

*And I'm not sure what love feels like,
And I'm not sure I ever knew.
But in the naked touch of midnight,
Sure feels like you.*

*I've got this notion to sail away across the ocean,
One perfect midnight in June.
No need to guide me, I'll have the dolphins swim beside me,
Beneath the light of the moon.
But when dark clouds come again,
The wind won't let me be, fireflies won't dance with me.
You're there to save me,
The wings the angels gave me.
To lead me out of the storm to the warm.*
